CLPF organized a roundtable discussion on the topic of health, nutrition, and food security in India. The event was held in collaboration with Consumer Voice, New Delhi, and was attended by experts from various fields such as nutritionists, researchers, and policymakers.

The discussion focused on the need for healthy and nutritious food options in India, particularly for vulnerable populations such as children and elderly. The panelists highlighted the importance of addressing the issue of malnutrition and lack of access to healthy foods, especially in rural areas and urban slums.

They emphasized the role of government initiatives and private sector contributions in combating malnutrition. The panelists also discussed the need for better education and awareness campaigns to promote healthy eating habits among the population.

Overall, the roundtable discussion underscored the critical importance of addressing food security and nutrition in India to ensure a healthy and prosperous future for the country.
